October, 1998

Dear Reader:

Although many people believe sexual assault is a rare occurrence, it happens often. In 1997, there were 3,056 forcible rapes reported to police in Tennessee. This number is high yet it represents a fraction of actual incidents. Studies indicate that for every rape reported there are an additional four which are unreported. This means that the estimated number of rapes in the state is over 15,200 in 1997 alone.

Because sexual assault is such a personal and traumatic experience, victims oftentimes remain silent and do not receive help. Many victims of domestic violence may also be sexually abused. However, sexual assault and domestic violence are different types of abuse that require specific needs.

Research indicates that two to four million women are battered each year, 1,500 women are murdered by an intimate partner, and 700,000 women are sexually assaulted. Children and elderly persons are abused and/or witness abuse in their homes.

Domestic violence and sexual assault demand a high price that is paid by each individual who is victimized. There are physical violations and emotional anguish that have long term consequences which are devastating to individuals, their families, and society as well. We are compelled to use important prevention strategies.

Domestic violence and sexual assault cut across the fabric of our society occurring in families of every race, class, culture, religion, and socio-economic level. Access to support and resources is key to enabling persons to break free of the violence which is controlling their lives.

Domestic violence and sexual assault prevention efforts must be multi-dimensional, involving a number of different kinds of professions, organizations, and communities. The Tennessee Department of Health, Violence and Sexual Assault Prevention Program is proud to work with the rape crisis centers and others in Tennessee to develop an interdisciplinary resource directory to be disseminated to agencies which render services to victims of violence and sexual assault. A sundry of agencies will be able to provide information and referrals more accurately with the help of this resource directory.

The Rape Prevention Education State Plan is designed to reduce the incidence of rape and attempted rape in Tennessee through education to children, women, and the general public; training to professionals; and the establishment of a women's resource center.

The Department of Health, Health Promotion/Disease Control Section is pleased to present the Tennessee Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Directory. This document includes the combined efforts of many agencies. It is our hope it will serve as a resource for the many diverse groups who have a role to play in the prevention effort.

Sincerely,

Kaye C. Chavis

Defining Sexual Abuse

Sexual abuse in violent relationships is often the most difficult aspect of abuse for women to discuss. It may include any form of forced sex or sexual degradation, such as:

- Trying to make a person perform sexual acts against their will
- Pursuing sexual activity when a person is not fully conscious or is not asked or is afraid to say no
- Hurting a female physically during sex or assaulting their genitals, including use of objects or weapons intravaginally, orally or anally
- Coercing a person to have sex without protection against pregnancy or sexually transmittable diseases
- Criticizing a person and calling them sexually degrading names.

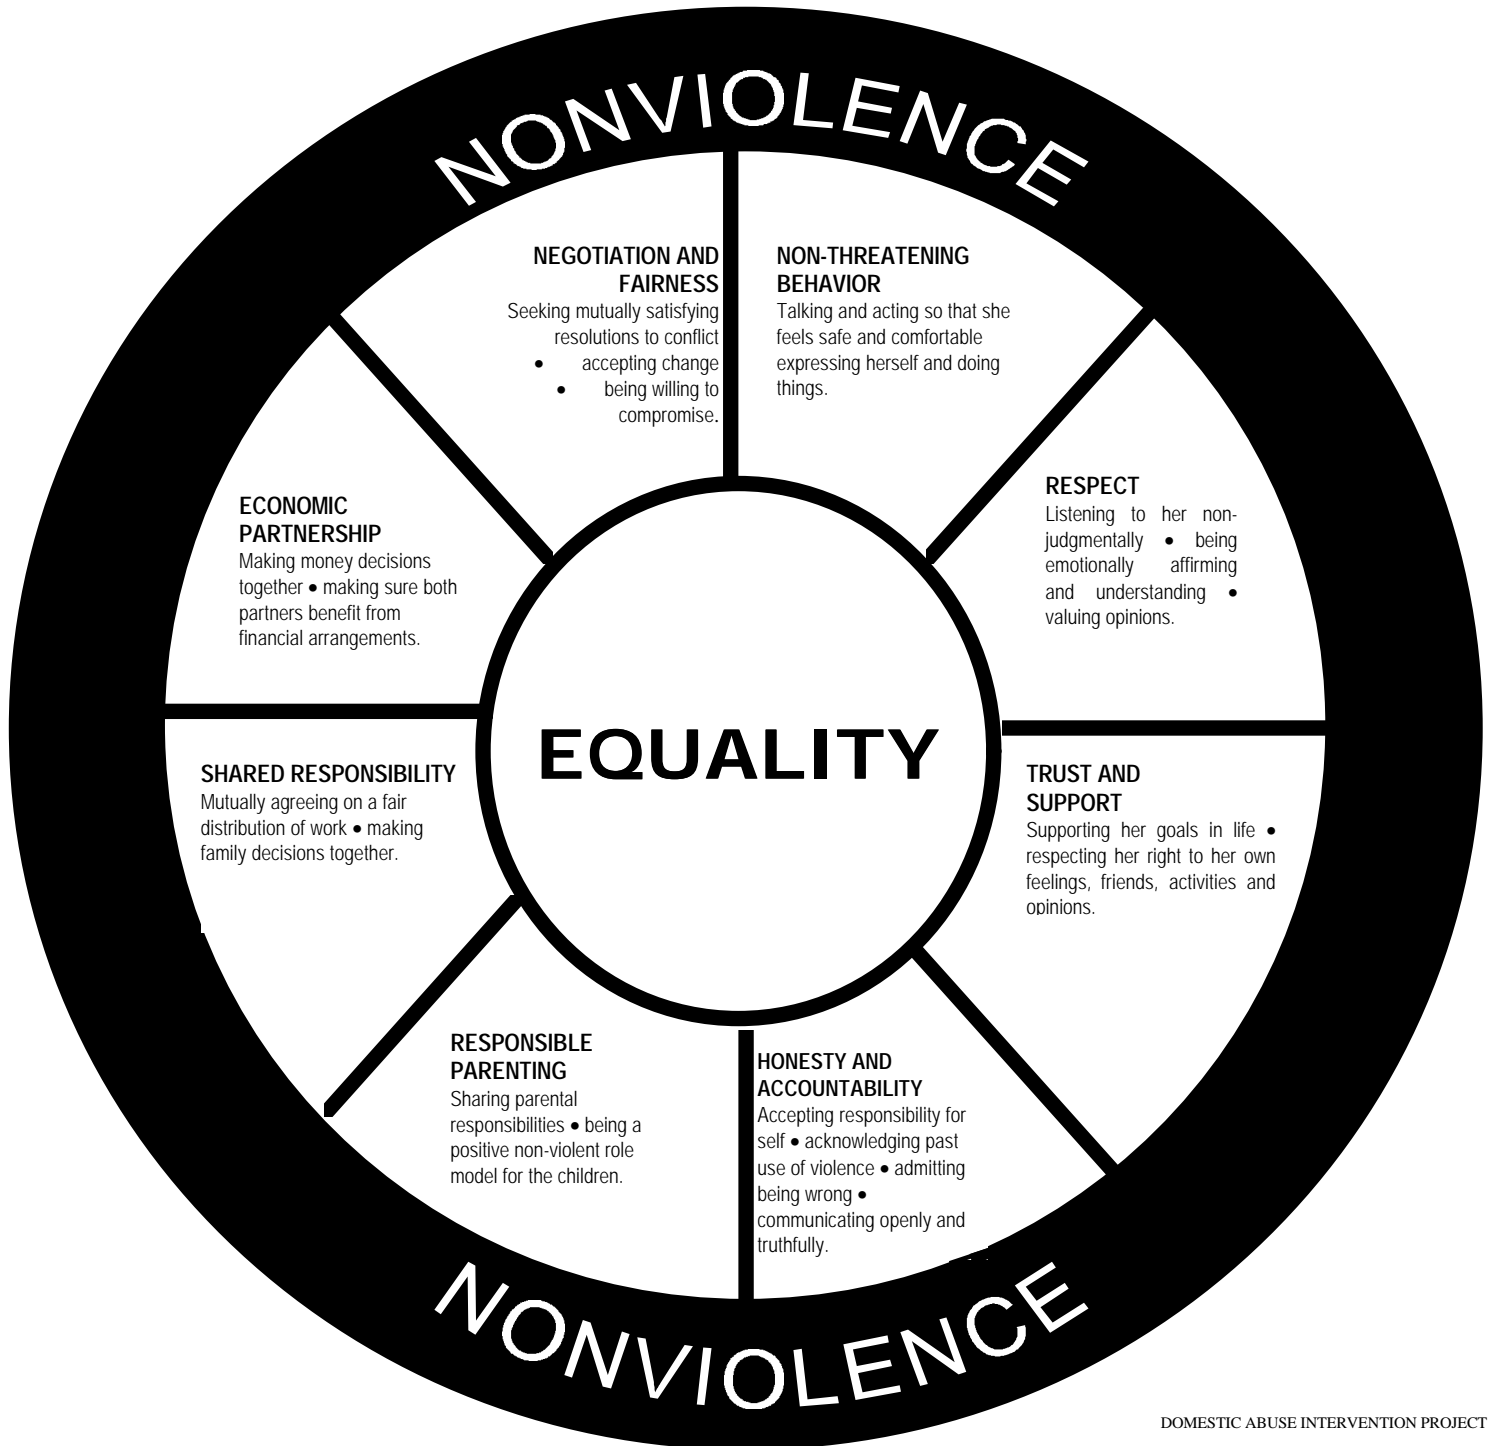

The Cycle of Violence

According to the Tennessee Medical Association, domestic violence tends to follow a cycle of three phases. In phase one, tension begins to increase, anger rises, and there is blaming and arguing. In phase two, battering occurs and can include sexual abuse, verbal threats or use of objects or weapons. In phase three, the batterer may deny the violence, make excuses of one's behavior, apologize and promise not to do it again. The third phase is sometimes called the "honeymoon phase."

According to the Tennessee Medical Association, physicians have the best opportunity to intervene in phases one and two. Research has shown that a victim may go through five to seven physical separations from a partner before taking any legal steps to obtain intervention in stopping the violence.

LEGAL SECTION

Legal Action For Rape Victims

Remember, victims have legal rights.

Legal rights vary from state to state. For example, victims may or may not have to prove that victims tried to resist the rapist's attack. In Tennessee, there are victim's advocates that can assist with understanding victims' rights and the legal system. The prosecutor or trained advocate can provide you with information on Tennessee state laws specifically. Victims can contact the local district attorneys' office and ask for the victims witness coordinator.

Remember, victims are not on trial.

Perhaps the most important of victims rights is that, in almost every part of the country, their past history is no longer admissible as evidence against them in any trial procedure. Past personal or sexual actions cannot be brought up in court if a victim decides to take legal action. They are not on trial.

If someone has been raped, they have been through a terrible ordeal. No one can undo what has happened to them. It is possible, however, that the ordeal can be made easier. This directory was developed to provide information to professionals to assist victims. Many resources (emotional, medical and legal) are now available to victims.

Remember, the choice is theirs.

One of the most difficult decisions a rape victim may face is whether or not to prosecute their attacker. This is a choice only they can make, hopefully with your help and support of other important people in their life.

Remember, they should tell their story soon.

An account of this crime should be told to the police as soon as possible, especially while in the hospital immediately after the attack. This is suggested so the victim can avoid forgetting details. Telling their story to the police does not usually commit them to further legal requirements. Talking to the police just maintains their option to prosecute. Victims should tell the police officer the facts as clearly and as thoroughly as possible. They may want to ask that a trained officer in rape situations take the story. Victims may feel more comfortable with a female officer or someone from a rape crisis center. They may even prefer to have a friend or trained advocate present during their conversation with the police. The interview with the police and other authorities should be comfortable, if possible.

Remember, to ask them to keep the events of the rape clear in their mind.

If a victim chooses to take legal action, they can expect to tell their story, to the police, and on a number of occasions over the next several months. Telling and re-telling of the rape can be difficult at times. However, it is necessary and victims must be prepared to state exactly what happened during their attack.

Even if they have already talked to the police, they may find it helpful to clarify in their own mind exactly what happened before, during and after the attack. It is normal to want to avoid thinking about the rape. But, it is important to get the facts clear immediately to prepare for the process of repeating the story to legal authorities. Victims may not want to think about the details of the rape, but should, to avoid forgetting important details. Advise them to write it out for themselves, or use a tape recorder. Chances of successfully prosecuting the attacker(s) depend on the victims' ability to remember details of the attack. They should pay specific attention to where they were before the attack. What did the rapist wear and say, his physical characteristics, their response, and every other small detail they can remember. What may seem unimportant at first may well be important evidence at a later time.

Sometimes the events of the rape seem less overwhelming once written down or recorded.

With coordination and cooperation between disciplines and agencies, collectively we can make a traumatic experience less painful. By being informed of the help available to victims within a myriad of resources, we can refer victims to the right place the first time.

Remember, you can be an important resource to the victim. Saying the following to victims may help:

1. "You did not cause this crime in any way. Your actions are totally separate from the violence acted out by the person who raped you."
2. "You reacted to the crime in the way that made the most sense and was safest to you at the time. Do not rely on hindsight to evaluate what you did or said."
3. "Your emotional responses following the rape are uniquely yours. Try not to be too hard on yourself."
4. "Take steps necessary to work through the rape. Resume your normal routine as much as possible. Talk to your family, friends, an advocate, or a counselor about your feelings as much as you find helpful and trust worthy."
5. "Medical and legal help are available to you. Use these services. Remember to ask questions to make sure you are being cared for in every way possible."
6. "You are still in charge of your own life. There is no way to excuse this crime, but you will recover from it."

Victims of Domestic Violence

Legal Options

In Tennessee, there are two legal options regarding domestic violence: a civil protection order and criminal statutes. A victim can choose to use one option or both to obtain maximum protection.

The following helps victims understand the various legal options available. It is advisable for the abused victim to consult with an attorney before exercising any of the following options.

Restraining Order/Peace Bonds

Some victims become confused by the difference between a protection order, a restraining order and a peace bond.

A protection order is specific to domestic violence situations and the law provides that violation of the order is a crime. Therefore, police can arrest for the violation of a protection order. The statute mandates police enforcement.

A restraining order is most often granted during a pending divorce action and is used to restrain one part from selling household goods, removing monetary assets or abusing and harassing. If this order is violated, the police do not have to arrest the restrained individual, as this is a court order and police are not required to enforce a court order. The victim must ask his/her attorney to file a contempt action in the court that granted the restraining order.

A peace bond is a layperson's term for what is most likely a peace warrant. A judge can order that one person be restrained from bothering another person. It may be used in a criminal case or can be requested on its own. Like the restraining order above, police cannot arrest for a violation of this order. These are seldom, if ever, used in Tennessee at present, though victims who have lived in other states will often request them.

Domestic violence shelters and domestic violence programs in Tennessee are listed in the Social Services section of this resource directory. They can help with housing, information about legal rights, welfare applications and counseling (including peer groups and counseling for children). They may also offer women brochures that address issues and list local resources. Many programs offer these services without charge. In addition to the shelters listed, there may be other shelters or services in the community that offer similar help.

The district attorney should be contacted for more information about the legal options for victims.

Civil Protection Order

You may want to photocopy this section and make it available to interested clients.

The victim may use a civil protection order to receive temporary relief from an abusive situation, whether or not a criminal charge is filed against the abuser.

The following are bases for filing a civil protection order:

1. Attempting to inflict or inflicting physical injury through:

- Non-accidental means
- Physical restraint
- Malicious damage to personal property of abused party

2. Threatening to inflict physical injury through:

- Non-accidental means
- Physical restraint
- Malicious damage to personal property of abused party

A present or former adult family or household member who is a victim may request the order. Family or household members include the following: Spouse, persons living as spouses, ex-spouse, a parent or child (if over 18 years old), a stepparent or stepchild (if over 18 years old), other persons related to the abuser or to the spouse or ex-spouse of the abuser, boyfriends and girlfriends (including gay and lesbian couples).

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AND SEX CRIME UNITS IN TENNESSEE

Tennessee Police Department And Sheriff Office Domestic Violence Services

Generally, Police Department Domestic Violence Units were created with the recognition that family violence is most often not an isolated event. Most units target swift intervention, offender accountability, and victim education. These units can be successful in interrupting the cycle of violence that plague victims of domestic violence.

The Domestic Violence Units provide comprehensive victim services to persons in abusive relationships. They operate with a dual approach, offering investigation and crisis intervention through victim services.

The Units are made up of professionals that provide specialized interventions, including:

- ◆ Criminal Investigation
- ◆ Crisis Counseling
- ◆ Assistance in completing Orders of Protection
- ◆ Victims' Compensation Information
- ◆ Safety Planning
- ◆ Referrals to Community Agencies for Social Services
- ◆ Referrals for Group and Individual Counseling
- ◆ Community Education
- ◆ Officer Training and Education

Tennessee domestic violence units are breaking the “response only” mold of law enforcement by examining needs of families in our communities. Family violence affects people of all economic strata, employment settings, children, and public safety. Some Tennessee Police Departments have created units that strive to assist victims of violence and keep people in communities safe.

Tennessee Police Department Adult Sex Crimes Units Services

The Adult Sex Crimes Units investigate cases only.

The Units are made up of professionals who make the following referrals:

- ◆ They call in counselors from the Victim Intervention Programs or Rape Crisis Centers.
- ◆ Nurse practitioners perform the Medical Legal Exam at a hospital or medical facility.
- ◆ Victims Witness Services Coordinators (through the District Attorney's Office) work with the victims regarding victim compensation and Domestic Violence Unit handles Domestic cases.

These units are listed in this directory. Police departments are also listed for the areas of the state that do not have domestic violence units.

VICTIMS WITNESS PROGRAMS

VICTIMS WITNESS SERVICES

Call Victims-Witness Programs at the local district attorneys office. Ask for a Victims-Witness Coordinator. They are available to:

- ◆ Help victims know what to expect in court
- ◆ Make referrals to other social service organizations
- ◆ Provide crisis intervention
- ◆ Explain Victim's Compensation
- ◆ Provide court support
- ◆ Give information about the parole process
- ◆ Provide a court group for children who have to testify in court
- ◆ Help with travel and transportation

If the victim does not have a ride to court, please have them call a Victim Witness Coordinator for possible transportation. Many agencies will try to help.

VICTIMS COMPENSATION FUND

TENNESSEE CRIMINAL INJURY COMPENSATION FUND

If you are an innocent victim of a violent crime, we may be a financial resource for you.

Tennessee Criminal Injury Compensation Fund
Division of Claims Administration
9th Floor Andrew Jackson Building
Nashville, Tennessee 37243-0243

Introduction

The state of Tennessee has a fund to reimburse innocent victims of violent crimes. Before the Tennessee Legislature passed the Criminal Injury Compensation Act in 1976, victims were responsible for their own expenses when they were injured as a result of criminal acts.

This office informs victims and victim assistance organizations of the benefits now available under this program and gives information on how to obtain these benefits.

What is Criminal Injury Compensation?

Criminal Injury Compensation is a program which provides financial help in cases where bodily injury or death results from criminal acts committed against innocent victims. The statutory guidelines for operation of this program may be found in Tennessee Code Annotated, Title 29, Chapter 13.

Who provides this Compensation?

Compensation is provided through the Criminal Injury Compensation Fund of the State of Tennessee. This fund consists of fines, penalties and fees assessed against persons convicted of crimes in Tennessee. Available federal funds are also used. No general tax revenues of the state are used; therefore, persons convicted of crimes support a program to benefit their victims.

Who is eligible for benefits?

A person may be eligible for benefits under the following circumstances.

- A person who suffered bodily injury as an innocent victim of a criminal act within the borders of Tennessee.
- A resident of Tennessee who has an innocent victim of terrorism or mass territorial boundaries of the United States and the claimant is not eligible for compensation under Title VIII of the Federal Omnibus Diplomatic Security and Antiterrorism Act of 1986.
- Any resident of Tennessee who was an innocent victim of a crime that occurred in another state which does not have a compensation program.

- Survivors of a homicide victim for medical and funeral expenses, and, in some cases, dependency. If there are no surviving dependents, the victim's estate may receive compensation for unreimbursed funeral and burial expenses.
- An innocent person who sustained bodily injury or death while attempting to prevent a criminal act or in an attempt to apprehend a person or persons suspected of engaging in a criminal act.
- A person who suffered bodily injury or death as a result of a motor vehicle or watercraft accident caused by a drunk driver or by a driver who intentionally inflicted injury.

Who is not eligible for benefits?

A person may not be eligible for benefits under the following circumstances.

- The individual did not assist the appropriate authorities in the investigations and prosecution of crimes.
- The individual contributed to his or her own victimization in any way, such as participating in the criminal act which led to the injury or death.
- An ward may be not approved in cases where the compensation would benefit the person who committed the crime for which compensation is sought.
- What conditions determine eligibility?
- In order for a victim to receive Criminal Injury Compensation, he or she must meet the following conditions.
- The victim (or the victim's survivors) must report the crime to the proper authorities within 48 hours after the crime was committed, unless the victim was a minor, or unless good cause can be shown for reporting the crime late.
- The victim must fully cooperate with law enforcement officials in their investigation and prosecution.
- A written claim for benefits must be filed within one year after the date of the criminal act, unless good cause can be established for not doing so.

MEDICAL SECTION

MEDICAL HELP FOR RAPE VICTIMS

It is important that a victim receive medical help immediately if they have been raped. The main reason is to insure that they take care of any injuries caused by the rape. This includes injuries they are aware of as well as those they may not know about. Even if victims do not plan to report the rape, medical help is a must. However, if victims do plan to report the rape to authorities, there is another reason to seek medical attention. Doctors and nurses are trained to collect evidence which the police and courts can use. Any such evidence will help victims prove what has happened.

Remember, if at all possible, victims should not change clothes or take a shower before seeking a doctor.

Collection of evidence is very important. It may be used to prosecute assailant. However, even if victims have changed clothes or taken a shower, they should still seek medical help.

Remember, victims have the right to make sure that medical attention is complete.

This means they should feel free to ask questions about what procedures will be performed in the hospital, and why. They may even choose to have a friend or volunteer advocate accompany them to the hospital. If someone goes with them, they can be a support and comfort and can help insist on thorough medical care.

MEDICAL ACTION FOR RAPE VICTIMS

What Can A Victim Expect?

The kind of medical attention each person who is raped will receive will depend upon the nature of the injuries, the medical procedures used in each hospital, and the particular doctors and nurses attending. Generally, however, the following steps can be expected.

1. They will ask victims questions about their health.

Victims will be asked about their current health status just as anyone would be for any other medical need. They will be examined for any bruises, cuts, or wounds and receive necessary treatment.

2. A pelvic examination will follow.

Some survivors find this uncomfortable after their recent experience. However, it is necessary, for the collection of evidence. More importantly, any damages to the vagina, cervix or genitals are assessed and treated. Oral and anal examinations and treatment may also be performed. Any specimens relating to the rape will be collected and marked for future legal processing.

3. Blood and urine samples will be gathered.

This is necessary to test for pre-existing pregnancy or venereal disease. In the process, many different health problems can be identified by a blood test.

4. Head and pubic combings, as well as fingernail scrapings will be taken.

Collection of foreign substances may be useful as evidence. This kind of examination may also provide important health information.

Where Should A Victim Go To Receive The Medical Attention They Need?

This will depend upon each particular community. Most hospital emergency rooms will be able to provide the necessary services. Some emergency rooms have specially trained staff to help rape survivors. Memphis and Chattanooga rape crisis centers have facilities and equipment to perform medical examinations for rape victims. A victim may feel comfortable seeing their family doctor.

Whichever choice they make, they should not neglect medical care for any reason. Again, feel free to ask any doctor or nurse or your local rape crisis center about what services are available.

A victim must be rechecked.

Any pregnancy or venereal disease which may occur as a result of rape cannot be detected immediately. Therefore, a victim will be rechecked by medical professionals for those possibilities not more than six weeks after the attack. The local health department is available for some treatment of sexual assaults.

Advise them to call for an appointment as soon as possible if they notice any of the following symptoms, such as:

- an increase in discharge
- burning or pressure during urination
- sores or blisters
- "flu-like" symptoms
- yellow skin or eyes
- an "odor" from the vagina
- painful intercourse
- swollen lymph nodes
- stomach pain
- white bowel movements

If they have any health questions, have them call between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. at their local health department.

Signs and Symptoms of Domestic Violence

Physical Injuries

Episodes of physical assault characterize abusive relationships. Health care providers should consider the possibility of assault when the woman's explanation of how an injury occurred does not seem plausible or when there has been a delay in seeking medical care.

- Common types of injury include: Contusions, abrasions and minor lacerations as well as fractures or sprains
- Injuries to the head, neck, chest, breast and abdomen)
- Injuries during pregnancy (especially to the breasts or abdomen)
- Numerous injuries at multiple sites (unless the patient has been involved in an auto accident or other catastrophe)
- Repeated or chronic injuries

Related Medical Findings

Domestic violence encompasses physical, emotional and sexual abuse. The stress of living in an ongoing abusive relationship may cause any of the following:

- Chronic pain, psychogenic pain or pain due to diffuse trauma without visible evidence
- Physical symptoms related to stress, chronic post-traumatic stress disorder, other anxiety disorders or depression. Examples are:
 - ⇒ Sleep and appetite disturbances
 - ⇒ Fatigue, decreased concentration, sexual dysfunction
 - ⇒ Chronic headaches
 - ⇒ Abdominal and gastrointestinal complaints
 - ⇒ Palpitations, dizziness, paresthesia, dyspnea
 - ⇒ Atypical chest pain
- Gynecologic problems such as frequent vaginal and urinary tract infections, dyspareunia and pelvic pain
- Frequent use of prescribed minor tranquilizers or pain medications
- Frequent visits with vague complaints or symptoms without evidence of physiologic abnormality

Many practitioners have noted that chronic illnesses such as asthma, seizure disorders, diabetes, arthritis, hypertension and heart disease may be exacerbated or poorly controlled in women who are being abused.

Sexual coercion and assault are common expressions of domestic violence. Assessment for sexual abuse and rape should be addressed in the sexual or social history taken during routine primary care visits, in discussions of birth control and safer sexual practices and in evaluations during gynecologic and obstetric visits.

Mental Health/Psychiatric Symptoms

Assessment for domestic violence should be included as a routine part of psychiatric intakes and evaluations. The stress of domestic violence may aggravate comorbid psychiatric disorders. Psychiatric symptoms of abuse include the following:

- Feelings of isolation and inability to cope
- Suicide attempts or gestures
- Depression
- Panic attacks and other anxiety symptoms
- Alcohol or drug abuse
- Post-traumatic stress reactions and/or disorder

Routine assessment of domestic violence in the patient's family is important for both men and women in alcohol and drug rehabilitation programs. Nearly 75 percent of all wives of alcoholics have been threatened, and 45 percent have been assaulted by their addicted partners.

Patients' and Partners' Behavioral Signs

Battered women may exhibit a variety of responses to the stress of ongoing abuse. Such patients may appear frightened, ashamed, evasive or embarrassed. A battered woman may believe she deserves the abuse because the abuser tells her so, and she may take the responsibility for his violence to maintain some sense of control over the situation. Other findings may include the following:

- Partner accompanies patient to physician's office, insists on staying close and answers all questions directed to her
- Patient may be reluctant to speak or disagree in front of her partner
- Partner may exhibit intense irrational jealousy or possessiveness or patient may report such behavior
- Patient may exhibit an exaggerated sense of personal responsibility for the relationship, including self-blame for her partner's violence

Issues for Medical Treatment Compliance

An abusive partner's use of control within a violent relationship may result in:

- Limited access to routine and/or emergency medical care
- Noncompliance with treatment regimens
- Not being allowed to obtain or take medication
- Missed appointments
- Lack of independent transportation, access to finances and/or ability to communicate by phone
- Failure to use condoms or other contraceptive methods
- Not being told by a partner that he is infected with HIV or other sexually transmitted diseases

CHILDREN'S ADVOCACY CENTER SERVICES

Children's Advocacy Centers offer a multitude of services that are directed to children 13 and under. Every sexual abuse case involves people from different fields and agencies -- law enforcement officers, prosecutors, medical and health professionals, mental health counselors, and child protective service workers. Dear Health Care Practitioner:

Studies indicate that annually two million to four million women are battered, 1,500 women are murdered by an intimate partner, and 700,000 women are sexually assaulted. Domestic abuse also affects children and the elderly. An estimated 3.3 million children annually witness abuse in their homes and often become victims of physical and sexual assault. There are 1.7 million cases of child abuse and from 250,000-450,000 cases of child sexual abuse reported each year. The number of elderly persons being mistreated has increased to 1.8 million annually.

Although these statistics represent an alarming number of domestic violence incidents, most experts agree that the magnitude of this epidemic is grossly underestimated because many victims remain silent about their abuse. They maintain their silence out of fear of the perpetrator, concern over social myths and biases, and/or lack of resources and the support necessary to break free from the violence.

Doctors and other health care workers are in a unique position to help end the cycle of violence, because they are often the only professionals who may have regular contact with victims. Women who are abused seldom report attacks to police, but may see their doctor regularly. In fact, a recent American Medical Association (AMA) report estimates that 20 to 30 percent of women seen in a medical setting at one time have been victims of abuse. The Tennessee Department of Health joins with the AMA in encouraging physicians and all health care professionals to use routine visits to identify abuse victims and assist them in getting help.

Recent legislation (T.C.A. 36-3-621) encourages health care practitioners to report incidents of domestic abuse to the Tennessee Department of Health, Office of Health Statistics on a monthly basis. In collaboration with the Tennessee Medical Association and the Tennessee Task Force Against Domestic Violence, the Department has developed a voluntary and anonymous reporting form. The form was designed to assist health care practitioners in collecting data on the prevalence of domestic violence in our state. The patient's name and identity shall not be disclosed, but information on the nature and extent of the patient's injuries should be reported, including comments concerning past abuse.

This voluntary reporting form does not replace mandatory reporting requirements for child abuse, elder abuse, deadly weapon injuries, suspicious fire deaths, or other violent circumstances.

Enclosed is a copy of the Voluntary Domestic Violence Screening/Statistical Form. Please copy this form to use for your monthly reporting.

Thank you for your help in assisting victims of domestic abuse and in our efforts to collect data to help document the extent of this problem in our state.

Sincerely,

Fredia S. Wadley, MD
State Health Officer

SAFETY PLAN

This Safety Plan is a resource for professionals. Risk assessment, risk reduction and safety plans are not one-size-fits-all work. Domestic violence interventions must be case-specific and based on an on-going analysis of the totality of risks the victim faces. Being in a relationship with an abusive partner and surviving requires considerable skill and resourcefulness.

The Safety Plan is not copyrighted. An agency may make copies for clients.

Nashville Metro Police Department
Domestic Violence Unit

PERSONALIZED SAFETY PLAN

The following steps represent a plan for increasing my safety and preparing in advance for the possibility for further violence. Although a person does not have control over a partner's violence, they do have a choice on how to best get themselves and their children to safety.

STEP 1: SAFETY DURING A VIOLENT INCIDENT. Women cannot always avoid violent incidents. In order to increase safety, battered women can employ a variety of strategies.

I can use some or all of the following strategies:

- A. If I decide to leave, I will _____
_____.
(Practice how to get out safely. What doors, windows, elevators, stairwells, or fire escapes would you use?)
- B. I can keep my purse and car keys ready and put them (place) _____ _____ in order to leave quickly. I can also make sure the car always has gas and is in good repair.
- C. I can tell _____ about the violence and request they call the police if they hear suspicious noises coming from my house. I can also tell _____ about the violence and request they call the police if they hear suspicious noises coming from my house.
- D. I can teach my children how to use the telephone to contact the police and the fire department. I can also teach them to use 911.
- E. I will use _____ as my code word with my children or my friends so they can call for help. I can have a signal - a porch light on or something hanging out of a window that will alert my neighbors/friends/children who can check on me and call the police.
- F. If I have to leave my home, I will go _____ (decide this even if you don't think there will be a next time.) If I cannot go to the location above, then I can to _____ _____ or _____. I will call first, and let _____ know I am coming so that he/she can watch for me.
- G. I can also teach some of these strategies to some/all of my children.

- H. When I expect we are going to have an argument, I will try to move to a space that is lowest risk, such as _____. (Try to avoid arguments in the bathroom, garage, kitchens, near weapons or in rooms access to an outside door.)
- I. I will use my judgment and intuition. If the situation is very serious, I can give my partner what he wants to calm him down. I have to protect myself until I/we are out of danger.

STEP 2: SAFETY WHEN PREPARING TO LEAVE. Battered women frequently leave the residence they share with the battering partner. Leaving must be done strategically in order to increase safety. Batterers often strike back when they believe that a battered woman is leaving a relationship.

I can use some or all of the following safety strategies:

- A. I will leave money and an extra set of keys with _____ so I can leave quickly.
- B. I will keep copies of important documents, keys, and important phone numbers at _____.
- C. I will open a savings account by _____ to increase my independence.
- D. Other things I can do to increase my independence include: _____.
- E. The domestic violence program's hotline number is _____. I can seek shelter by calling this hotline.
- F. I can keep change for phone calls on me at all times. I understand that if I use my telephone credit card, the following month the telephone bill will tell my batterer those numbers that I called after I left. To keep my telephone communications confidential, I must either use coins or I might get a friend to permit me to use their telephone credit card for a limited time when I first leave.
- G. I will check with _____ and _____ to see who would be able to let me stay with them or lend me some money.
- H. I can leave extra clothes with _____.
- I. I will sit down and review my safety plan every _____ in order to plan the safest way to leave the residence. _____ (domestic violence advocate or friend) has agreed to help me review this plan.
- J. I will rehearse my escape plan, and as appropriate, it with my children.

STEP 3: SAFETY IN MY OWN RESIDENCE. There are many things that a woman can do to increase her safety in her own residence. It may be impossible to do everything at once, but safety measures can be added step by step.

Safety measures I can use include:

- A. I can change the locks on my doors and windows as soon as possible.
- B. I can replace wooden doors with steel/metal doors.
- C. I can install security systems including additional locks, window bars, poles to wedge against doors, and electronic system, etc.
- D. I can purchase rope ladders to be used for escape from second floor windows.
- E. I can install smoke detectors and purchase fire extinguishers for each floor in my house/apartment.
- F. I can install an outside lighting system that lights up when a person is coming close to my house.
- G. I will teach my children how to use the telephone to make a collect call to me and to _____ (friend/minister/other) in the event that my partner abducts the children.
- H. I will tell people who take care of my children which people have permission to pick up my children and that my partner is not permitted to do so. The people I will inform about pick-up permissions include:
(School), _____
(Day care staff), _____
(Baby-sitter), _____
(Sunday school teacher), _____
and _____ _____ (others).

- I. I can inform _____ (neighbor), _____ (pastor), and _____ (friend) that my partner no longer resides with me and they should call the police if he is observed near my residence.

STEP 4: SAFETY WITH A PROTECTION ORDER. Many batterers obey protection orders, but one can never be sure. I recognize that I may need to ask the police and the courts to enforce my protection order.

The following are some steps that I can take to help the enforcement of my protection order:

- A. I will keep my protection order _____(location).
(Always keep it near your person. If you change purses, that's the first thing that should go in.)
- B. I will give my protection order to police departments in the community where I work, in those communities where I usually visit family or friends, and in the community where I live.
- C. There should be a county registry of protection orders that all police departments can call to confirm the validity of a protection order. I can check to make sure that my order is in the registry. The telephone number for the county registry (Marshall's office) is _____.
- D. I can call the local domestic violence program if I am not sure about B or C above or if I have some problem with my protection order.
- E. I will inform my employer, my minister, my closest friend, and _____ _____ and _____ that I have a protection order in effect.
- F. If my partner destroys my protection order, I can get another copy from the Superior Court located at _____.
- G. If my partner violates the protection order, I can call the police and report a violation, contact my attorney, call my advocate, and/or advise the court of the violation.
- H. If the police do not help, I can contact my advocate or attorney who can file a complaint with the chief of the police department.
- I. I can also file (if applicable), a private criminal complaint with the _____.

STEP 5: SAFETY ON THE JOB AND IN PUBLIC. Each battered woman must decide if and when she will tell others that her partner has battered her and that she may be at continued risk. Friends, family and co-workers can help to protect women. Each woman should consider carefully which people to invite to help secure her safety.

I might do any or all of the following:

- A. I can inform my boss, the security supervisor and _____ _____ at work of my situation.

- B. I can ask _____ to help screen my telephone calls at work.
- C. When leaving work, I can _____.
- D. When driving home if problems occur, I can _____.
- E. If I use public transit, I can _____.
- F. I can use different grocery stores and shopping malls to conduct my business and shop at hours that are different than those when residing with my battering partner.
- G. I can also _____.

STEP 6: SAFETY AND DRUG OR ALCOHOL CONSUMPTION. Many people in our culture consume alcohol. Many consume mood-altering drugs. Much of this consumption is legal and some is not. The legal outcomes of using illegal drugs can be very hard on a battered woman, may hurt her relationship with her children and put her at a disadvantage in other legal actions with her battering partner. Therefore, women should carefully consider potential cost of the use of illegal drugs. But beyond this, the use of any alcohol or other drugs can reduce a woman's awareness and ability to act quickly to protect herself from her battering partner. Furthermore, the use of alcohol or other drugs by the batterer may give him/her an excuse to use violence. Therefore, in the context of drug or alcohol consumption, a woman needs to make specific safety plans.

If drug or alcohol consumption has occurred in my relationship with the battering partner, I can enhance my safety by some or all of the following:

- A. If I am going to consume, I can do so in a safe place and with people who understand the risk of violence and are committed to my safety.
- B. I can also _____.
- C. If my partner is consuming, I can _____.
- D. I might also _____.
- E. To safeguard my children, I might _____.

STEP 7: SAFETY AND MY EMOTIONAL HEALTH. The experience of being battered and verbally degraded by partners is usually exhausting and emotionally draining. The process of building a new life takes much courage and incredible energy.

To conserve my emotional energy and resources and to avoid hard emotional times, I can do some of the following:

- A. If I feel down and ready to return to a potentially abusive situation, I can _____.
- B. When I have to communicate with my partner in person or by telephone, I can _____.
- C. I can try to use "I can . . ." statements with myself and to be assertive with others.
- D. I can tell myself - " _____ " whenever I feel others are trying to control me.
- E. I can read _____ to help me feel stronger.
- F. I can call _____, and _____ other resources to be of support to me.
- G. Other things I can do to help me feel stronger are _____, and _____.
- H. I can attend workshops and support groups at the domestic violence program or _____, to gain support and strengthen my relationships with other people.

STEP 8: ITEMS TO TAKE WHEN LEAVING: When women leave partners, it is important to take certain items with them. Beyond this, women sometimes give an extra copy of papers and an extra set of clothing to a friend just in case they have to leave quickly.

Items with asterisks (*) on the following list are the most important to take. If there is time, the other items might be taken, or stored outside the home.

These items might best be placed in one location, so that if I have to leave in a hurry, I can grab them quickly.

CHECKLIST (*Items most important to take)

When I leave, I should take:

- _____ * Identification for myself

HELPFUL SAFETY TIPS

HELP YOURSELF STAY SAFE

"If you stay or decide to return. . . ."

If you are living in an abusive relationship and are not ready to leave or you have found yourself returning, you must keep yourself and your children safe. Whatever your reasons for staying/returning, you do not deserve to be abused. If you decide to stay/return to your partner and work things out, seek outside help. See a counselor who does not blame you for the abuse, and who puts your safety first. Contact a women's shelter, public health nurse, nursing station, or hospital to get recommendations for counseling.

SAVE MONEY

Save whatever money you can in a bank account which is in your name only. Keep the bank book in a place where your partner won't find it. Many persons are surprised at how quickly and suddenly they may be in an emergency situation. Save from the grocery money or however you can if you don't have any other sources of income. Knowing that you have an emergency fund will help reduce your anxiety.

PREGNANCY

Do not get pregnant if you think that your relationship is not good and may become more abusive. Make sure you control your birth control method and that your birth control method works. Your partner may abuse you even more while you are pregnant - and after you give birth. Pregnancy could also make it harder for you to leave. If you become pregnant and don't want to be, get counseling to discuss your options. If you are already pregnant, you can still follow these other survival measures.

SECRETS ARE HARMFUL

Don't be ashamed to discuss your problems with others who believe abuse is wrong. You need support. There are still many people who believe, wrongly, that it is okay for a man to abuse his partner and that it is her fault if he does. Choose the people you talk with carefully and confide your arrangements with a select few.

HE IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS BEHAVIOR

Remember his behavior is based on power and control and is not your responsibility. Do not be ashamed to tell someone if he is abusing you. It is not your fault. If he abuses you, he has a problem.

SUICIDE IS NOT THE ANSWER

It is normal to feel depressed at this time in your life. Many persons have the feeling that suicide is the only real option. Killing yourself may seem like the best escape. It is not. If you feel suicidal, it's often the result of believing your partner's putdowns, denying your anger toward him/her and turning it on yourself.

OBSTACLES TO LEAVING

1. MONEY - no access to immediate cash makes it difficult to rent an apartment when first month and last month's rent and deposit are required. If persons are homeless and on the street, they are at risk of having their children taken from them.
2. FEAR - physical and emotional harm.
3. CHILDREN - the abuser threatens to obtain custody of the children. Without access to cash, an alternative life is difficult. If women have no access to cash they may have no resources to fight the legal system.
4. FEW SHELTERS - there are 3500 shelter for animals in this country, yet only 1200 shelters for women and their children.
5. LACK OF SUPPORT - victims and their families have often been isolated and do not have a support network to draw upon.
6. FAMILY PRESSURE - family and friends see the abuser as a "good guy" since the abuser is careful always to abuse in private, and always display a positive image in public.
7. CULTURE - culture of abused woman may tacitly or openly approve of domination of women by men, and make it "okay" for males to batter.
8. RELIGION - religion may also tacitly or openly approve of "preserving the family" at all costs, even to the detriment of women and children.
9. GUILT - the abused may feel that he/she has not done enough to prevent the violence against him/her. Victim may feel he/she deserved it.
10. SHAME/EMBARRASSMENT - the abused may feel that he/she is at fault and should have been able to prevent him/her battering, and is too shamed to make it public.
11. ONLY LIFE THEY KNOW - the abused may be so traumatized by the continual abuse that he/she cannot conceive of another way of living.
12. DENIAL - the abused and abuser may both deny that anything is "wrong"--that they were just "having some problems."
13. LOVE - the abused may feel that he/she still loves him/her partner.
14. NOT VIOLENT ALL THE TIME - abuse cycles with abuser being non-abusive for periods of time.
15. PROMISES OF CHANGE - abuser promises he/she will change his/her behavior during the "honeymoon" phase of the relationship.
16. BELIEF IN CHANGING THE ABUSER - the abused believes that if he/she tries a little harder, or is a little better, the abuser will really change.
17. CRAZYMAKING - the abuser tries to make the abused feel responsible for everything, especially the belief that the abused is bad.

Remember, LEAVING IS A PROCESS. Domestic violence is a pattern of behaviors learned by both victim and batterer. Safety is your primary goal.
